JEFFREY MEIJER

ABOUT

While working in the Real Estate Industry I was introduced to programming by a close friend. Due to my past education in IT, I have always been curious about Web and Software Development but after reading a Web development how-to book and creating my first website from scratch, I was officially hooked. Not only was it intellectually stimulating but it was the first time I found myself doing something I loved.

Since being introduced to programming I have read through as many materials as one can possibly go through, taken a Full-Stack Web development course while getting additional certifications for Responsive Web Design and JavaScript. My focus now is on becoming a top-notch developer
